God's Beautiful Rose

A crown of suffering was placed on her head
For a purpose she knew not why.
The weight of His ways she cannot see
As she bows before His throne to cry.
As her tears fall like crystals before His feet,
Nail scared hands tenderly gather each one;
He anticipates the day she will behold His ways
And see that her suffering has seated her in the Son.
Never does she falter under the weight of this crown.
She holds firm that His grace is sufficient.
The beauty of the Lord is clearly etched on her face;
As a bearer of His glory she has become proficient.
Why was she chosen to bear this crown?
What purpose can we see in such pain?
Hand-picked by God like a beautiful Rose,
This precious saint is in training to reign.
